ABSTRACT

A new cultivar of CAMELLIA named 'CLASSIC PINK' that is characterized by exceptional cold-hardiness, an attractive compact plant form with very dark glossy green foliage, and formal double very pale pink flowers which are late to bloom. In combination these traits set 'CLASSIC PINK' apart from all other existing varieties of CAMELLIA known to the inventor.